Second Place for Virginia.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Washington. February 19.—Second place in the intercollegiate section of the Wilson inaugural parade probably will be awarded the University of Virginia. The inaugural committee today was informed that 300 Virginia students, wearing orange and blue cross belts and white gloves, will be on hand for the big ceremonies March 4. This means that Johns Hopkins University may be forced into third place, as only about 150 students from the latter institution are expected.

The first four colleges in the intercollegiate section will be those that the President-elect attended. They are Princeton, the University and Davidson College. Eight hundred Princetonians will be at the head of the procession. Georgetown and George Washington Universities will be assigned positions immediately back of Davidson College. Other educational institutions that are to participate in the parade will be given places according to the order of their charter dates.
